REMEMBER DODSON AND FOGG?

(from PICKWICK PAPERS)

Charles Dickens had a low opinion of the legal eagles whom he himself created and who represented Mrs. Bardell in her suit against his beloved Mr. Pickwick. But he faithfully recorded that they won a verdict for their client.

By the law of average, only fifty per cent of all attorneys engaged in legal controversies can be "on the side of the angels". The same percentage must conscientiously and to the best of their abilities take up the cudgels for the adversaries.

Whether you find yourself on the unpopular side or not — but particularly if you do — you should check carefully the cases and statutes you and your opponent plan to use as precedent. And you should search most diligently for additional favorable authorities in point.

Our subscribers believe there is no better way to do this than through Shepard's Citations. May we show you how?

■ The primary function of LAW WEEK is to safeguard you against missing a single development of legal importance . . . yet to save your time by greatly reducing your reading load!

■ To do this, LAW WEEK's expert staff of lawyer-editors sifts thousands of opinions and rulings week by week, year after year, for the precedent-setting few that make new law. These significant cases are then digested under quick-reference topic headings—such as Antitrust, Taxation, Insurance, Public Contracts, Labor, Transportation, Trade Regulation, Criminal Law, Public Utilities, Railroads—in the appropriate section of LAW WEEK: (1) New Court Decisions, (2) Federal Agency Rulings, or (3) Supreme Court Opinions.

■ To further save your time, the opinions and rulings appearing in all sections of LAW WEEK are highlighted in a special Summary and Analysis, a five-minute review in which these legal developments are tersely evaluated for their effect on current law.

■ A key feature of LAW WEEK is its high-speed reporting of Opinions of the United States Supreme Court—in full text, accompanied by crisp and accurate summary digests. Mailed the same day they are handed down, these exact photographic reproductions of the Court's Opinions eliminate all possibility of error.
